Why Choose Me for Your Manuscript?

One of the things that makes me different from other editors is my commitment to the author's words. I think far too often, editors impose their own will on a manuscript, almost forcing authors to rewrite it so it meets with the editor's convictions. I've seen many talented authors give up on writing because they've been critiqued too harshly by an editor. Each time, I was deeply saddened at the callousness with which the writer was treated. Somewhere along the way, editors became synonymous with tearing up books and changing their foundation, rather than assisting the author to enhance what they wrote. That's not okay, and it's something I'm seeking to change one author at a time.

My mission is to preserve the authenticity of your words, thoughts, and vision for your book. It is my job to help you present your words in a way that is easily digested by the reader, so nothing impacts their ability to see the picture you've painted.

Your words deserve to be heard as you wrote them, with your intention intact. Allow me the opportunity to show you the difference it makes to have an editor who is focused on helping you grow rather than changing your perspective.

Joseph Editorial Services will always remain faithful to your voice. It's a point of pride for me to see an author who has been beaten down by the industry finally release their book...and then to watch readers bestow praise on them for the work.
